

Dear readers and colleagues!

Let me take this opportunity and congratulate you with the first 5-year jubilee anniversary of the International Scientific and Practical Journal Energy Law Forum. The five years, which saw hot discussions on the journal's cover and the issues' concept, have elapsed quickly, almost unnoticed, as if it were only yesterday that Mr. Blazheev and Mr. Grib decided to set up this periodical.

I want to express my sincere gratitude to members of the editorial board and the editorial collegium for their help and support in creating the journal, for wonderful articles and valuable advice and recommendations.

It is a great pleasure that both famous and young researchers and legal practitioners publish their articles in our edition covering most actual issues of legal regulation in the field of energy.

I wish to all of the journal contributors and members of the editorial board and the editorial collegium of the International Scientific and Practical Journal Energy Law Forum success in their creative work, health, and prosperity!
